

Part 4: Off to a Good Start

(by John R. Hollenbeck, Associate Dean for Research)

Although publications and citations are clearly signs of research accomplishment, training future research scholars is fundamental to the intellectual mission of the college. Thus, as part of the process of expanding what constitutes evidence for research accomplishment, the current Strategic Plan for Research and Scholarship emphasizes the contributions made by our faculty toward doctoral education. The faculty cited below chaired the dissertation committee of doctoral students who matriculated in 2022, and thus, are shaping the future of the field while at the same time, advancing the careers of our students. This is especially evident when this translates into Ph.D. placements at Carnegie R1 Research Institutions.
