WMBIA Welcomes Class of 2015

The Welmedic MIA Class of 2015 embarked on its journey. Students traveled to their local territories with each of the program’s residency week the end of the day and spent special time building the strong relationship with their team that they will need for the next four years. The members of the Class of 2015 are now beginning to become familiar with their team members and MIA and the Broad Approach to building a team. The team members are excited to have their Challenge, where teams will be differentiated across campus and then compete in a show of team spirit and knowledge.

The incoming WMBIA class consists of 31 students (average 19 years old and nearly 12 years of career experience). Approximately half of the group will return next year while the rest are new to the class and the other half will be at the Management Education Center in fall.

Foreman Joins Dean’s Office Staff

The Broad College Dean’s Office recently welcomed Janet Foreman as the new executive secretary. Janet, who has been working in a hospitable position in the office for the last several years, is an MSU alumnus and has served in varied administrative and office capacities. We all look forward to seeing Jan in her new role.

Website Server Change Results in Performance Gains

On June 15, IT staff moved to Broad College WordPress websites from the previous hosting provider to servers maintained by the college. As a result of the change, the time for pages on the website have been reduced by 75 percent. In addition to performance gains, increased stability and reliability are projected by hosting our sites internally.

Devere Named International Research Fellow

Cynthia Devere, associate professor of management, has been named an international research fellow below the Ohio State University Center for Corporate Responsibility in Oxford, England. The Center is located within the School of Business at Oxford and focuses on exploring the ways in which companies can create shared value, sustain development, and transform societies. Congratulations!
